The Analyst Program

Our analysts are well-rounded individuals who have demonstrated excellent academic performance. We look for exceptional candidates who are team-oriented leaders and passionate about solving important business problems related to economics and finance.

The summer analyst role, available to those entering their senior year of undergraduate study, offers a preview of the full-time position. Summer analysts have access to career and learning development opportunities, as well as culture-building events.

YOUR ROLE AS AN ANALYST

Work in teams, typically including a faculty expert and senior consultants

Provide input on case strategy, conduct analyses, and support expert testimony

Deliver quantitative and qualitative analyses by conducting financial and economic modeling

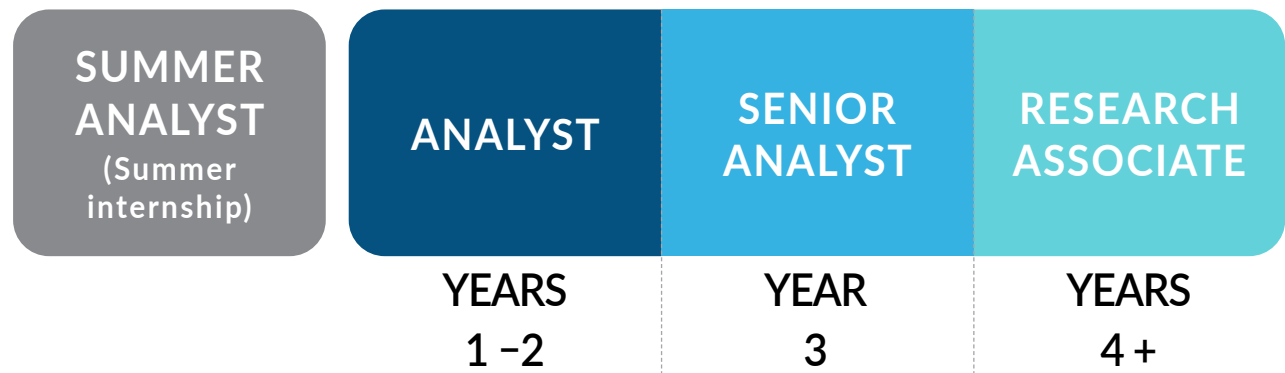

We Invest in Your Success

Cornerstone Research values the professional growth of our consultants and invests in their development by:

- Providing comprehensive, focused, and engaging learning programs tailored to the analyst experience.
- Supporting the acquisition of skills and knowledge required to succeed in their role and career.
- Offering preparation and support for graduate school.
- Connecting our staff with mentorship support.
- Cultivating a curriculum that develops skill sets through workshops, on-demand learnings, and offsites.
